THE BARRE DAILY TIMES

FRIDAY, MARCH 25, 1910.

Frank E. Langley, Publisher.

And Foster gets his pay.

Have you heard from Rutland yet, Mr. Hapgood?

Barre granite is keeping the iron hot between Barre and Montpelier Junction.

A much busied dove of peace has settled over the halls of Congress.

We trust that by this time Secretary of State Knox has drawn up a treaty of peace with his eloping son.

Three out of forty-two Vermont newspapers uphold Speaker Cannon; the other thirty-nine are just plain every country.

It may interest the remainder of the world that the ice has gone out in Vermont and we expect spring most any time.

The St. Albans Messenger notes the death of one of its aged editors of ante-bellum days, Wilbur P. Davis. "Ante-bellum days"—how far-away a sound that has!

Foss' election strikes Massachusetts hard, but Republicans are consoling themselves with the thought that the elected man is a better Republican than the defeated candidate, who, by the way, was campaign manager for W. L. Douglass only a short time ago.

Some of the Vermont high school seniors who went to Washington to-day may go again in later years. In some high official position. At any rate, the trip will be of very great educational value, provided they have intelligent guidance through the maze of Washington life, and the students will have had a glimpse of a broader life, that will prove beneficial.

Five hundred business firms, besides representatives of teaming firms and humane societies, have positioned the Boston street commissioners not to take up the granite block pavement on Milk, Devonshire and Pearl streets in that city and replace them with wood block pavement. The advantages of granite pavement are believed to outweigh the single disadvantage of its noisiness.

It does not sound reasonable that John L. Lewis would forsake North Troy, bag and baggage, and go down to Rutland to write campaign stuff for Mead, without compensation, either in coin or promise. What is to make up for the losses sustained in the occupation which was temporarily forsaken? It is reasonable to suppose that Lewis applied for the job, as Mr. Mead says; in fact, it is quite likely.

This is the season of the year when even your youngest boy as well as your oldest realizes that every man is girding his neck with new gorgeousness.

Regardless of age they all want new things for Easter and here they are. Whatever is new is here.

The highest in quality or the lowest in price, the finest assortment is here.
